

DAN KYRIAKIDES

Team: Risk Management and Operational Treasury

Location: London

Contact: dan.kyriakides@pmctreasury.com

My role at PMC

My role at PMC started with the central team, helping out with various business development initiatives. After just over a year, I transitioned into a hybrid role, working as a business analyst across two of the company's advisory functions – Risk Management and Operational Treasury.

A typical day

A typical day usually starts off with some email sifting whilst sipping a cup of coffee. I could then be carrying out some interest rate analysis for client kick-off calls, summarising bank transactions for a company that is in a carve-out situation, or working on internal processes, such as defining guidelines for a treasury policy project. This is all broken up by a quick trip to the nearby 7-dials market for lunch.

What I like best about PMC

The thing I like best about working at PMC is the variety of knowledge I am gaining. The work PMC do is very technical and the opportunity to learn here is great, with the company always being open to supporting my needs and career ambitions.

How I spend my spare time

In my spare time I play a lot of hockey. I am currently playing semi-professionally for a club team in Hamburg, whilst representing Wales at international level. Outside of hockey, I enjoy taking my dog for long walks and tasting different beers in London's vast choice of pubs.

Get in touch with me

If PMC sounds like the kind of company you would like to work for or you just fancy finding out more than please connect with me – I'd love share more with you about what we do and how we work.

Connect with me on

LinkedIn

Our expertise. Your advantage